Descriptive Report of the Program

‘INTRODUCTION AND APPLICATION OF ANALYTICAL INSTRUMENTS’

The Department of Chemistry organized an online certificate course titled ‘INTRODUCTION AND APPLICATION OF ANALYTICAL INSTRUMENTS’ under the guidance of our H. O. D. Dr. Shivani Banerjee and course co-ordinator Dr. Kalpana Rathod.

The certificate course was conducted on MS Teams from 9th December 2021 to 20th December 2021. The duration of the course was 30hr. 97 students registered for the course. Inauguration of Certificate Course began with Dnyanasadhana Geet. Chief resource person for the certificate course Dr. G. R. Bhagure who delivered a talk on Analytical instrumentation and its day-to-day applications.

The course was designed with the four-quadrant Approach, the Components which are e- Tutorial, e-Content, Discussion and Assessments. The course was divided into Ten modules of Three Hours each, Inclusive of the assignment and objective type Assessment at the end of the Module.

Departmental faculties, Dr. Shivani Banerjee, Dr. Kalpana Rathod, Dr. Ganesh Bhagure, Dr. Sonali Kokane, Dr. Bhushan Langi, Ms. Farahat Khan, Mr. Aditya Khanna Mr. Sattu Chavan were the resource persons for the various modules of the certificate course. All the resource persons gave us a new insight on the different instrumentation and its application. Many Instrumentation and applications like G.C-MS And HPLC, Flame photometry, pH metry, Colorimetry, Conductometry, Mass Spectrometry were included in the curriculum. Computers and chemistry blending was also a part of the discussion.

A multiple-choice questions-based test was conducted at the end so that students can evaluate themselves. Feedback link was shared to students which gave us an insight to update and to overcome our shortcomings and head towards betterment for our next course. Indeed, the course was very participative, innovative, informative, useful and we sincerely hope that the course has motivated many participants to seek and learn instrumentation and applications of various instruments and help them to enrich their CV amongst their fellow counterparts.
